THE MÉTIS NATION BRITISH COLUMBIA ANNOUNCES NEW MINISTER FOR EDUCATION.

Vancouver, BC – Métis Nation British Columbia's President Bruce R Dumont announces today the newly appointed MNBC Minister Responsible for Education.

"The Metis Nation British Columbia is happy to announce and congratulate Mr. Henry Hall, Director for the Lower Mainland and Minister responsible for Housing for his new appointment as the MNBC Minister responsible for Education," stated President Dumont.

Minister Hall is an advocate for education and believes that learning begins with families and communities. He has shared his knowledge of Métis culture and history with schools and communities throughout the province. Minister Hall attended the University of the Fraser Valley and the Chief Dan George Center where he focused on Family Dynamic Training, Peer Counseling and Indigenous Training.

"I received the best education by putting five (5) children through school", Minister Hall commented. "I am honoured to accept this important Ministry and will do my very best to build on the relationships and initiatives that Minister Hodgson has created".

President Dumont commented; “on behalf of the MNBC Board of Directors, I would like to acknowledge and sincerely thank Mr. Hall’s predecessor David R Hodgson for his commitment to the Education ministry these past few years and the great work that has been achieved through his leadership”. Minister Hodgson will continue his commitment to the Métis Nation British Columbia in his elected role as Vice President and appointment as Minister responsible for Employment & Training.
